Big Plane Explodes After Hitting Mountainside Near Canal Zone

DEATH TOTAL UNCERTAIN

17 Passengers And Crew Of Six Believed Killed On Routine Flight

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., June 10 — Crash of a C-54 plane from Morrison Field in which 23 persons are believed to have perished was under investigation today by Army authorities.

The plane, carrying a crew of 6 and 17 passengers, struck a mountainside at 11:13 a. m. Sunday on Taboga Island off the coast of the Canal Zone, while reportedly on a routine flight from Morrison Field to Albrook Field, C. Z. The craft had taken off from West Palm Beach at 4:45 a. m. Sunday.

A selected crew manned the plane, according to Lt. Col. John S. Owens, deputy commander of Morrison Field. In addition to the crew the craft carried 13 enlisted men, one Army colonel, two West Point cadets, and one civilian.

An explosion occurred when the plane crashed against the mountainside, Col. Owens said, eight miles off the Canal Zone coast. A report from Panama said the crash resulted from poor visibility as a consequence of a steady downpour of rain.

Pending notification of the next of kin the names of those aboard were unreleased.

SLAV GUERRILLA LEADER JEERED AS TRIAL OPENS

BELGRADE, June 10 — Gen. Draja Mihailovich was jeered and booed by some 1,000 spectators today when he strode into a jammed courtroom to face trial on charges of collaborating with the Nazi occupation forces in Yugoslavia.

The trial of Mihailovich, once hailed by the Allies as the heroic leader of anti-Nazi resistance in Yugoslavia, opened with the formal reading of treason charges against him and 23 other joint defendants.

The court and prosecution staff were greeted with applause when they appeared for the opening of the trial.

Ohio Youths Behaved Better Than Did Adults

COLUMBUS, June 10 — Ohio juveniles did not take off on a sex spree during the war years, a state research sociologist revealed here today.

In fact, the behaviour of the youths was better than the adults' record, but more surprising—the boys outshone the girls and took the edge off the "sugar and spice" rhyme.

Richard Allaman of the state bureau of juvenile research said that contrary to popular belief,

Government Accused Of 'Throttling'

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 10—Hamilton T. Holt, Macon, Ga., president of Kiwanis International, today charged the government with throttling industry and leaving "strike-happy" union leadership completely outside the law.

Holt told 6,000 delegates attending the 31st annual convention of the organization, that government tolerance of "power-drunk, strike-happy union leaders" is bringing about a chaos and confusion which will soon destroy both labor and industry as productive components of the national economy.

The Kiwanis leader, a prominent southern industrialist, said the situation was especially deplorable since it finds millions of servicemen returning to civilian life to find present laws "control their every act and leave them absolutely no recourse against the destructive demands of labor racketeers."

"It is foolish to argue industry has always come into court with clean hands," Holt said. "But in-

Milk Increase Held Up By Dairies And Stores; Cheese Ceiling Up

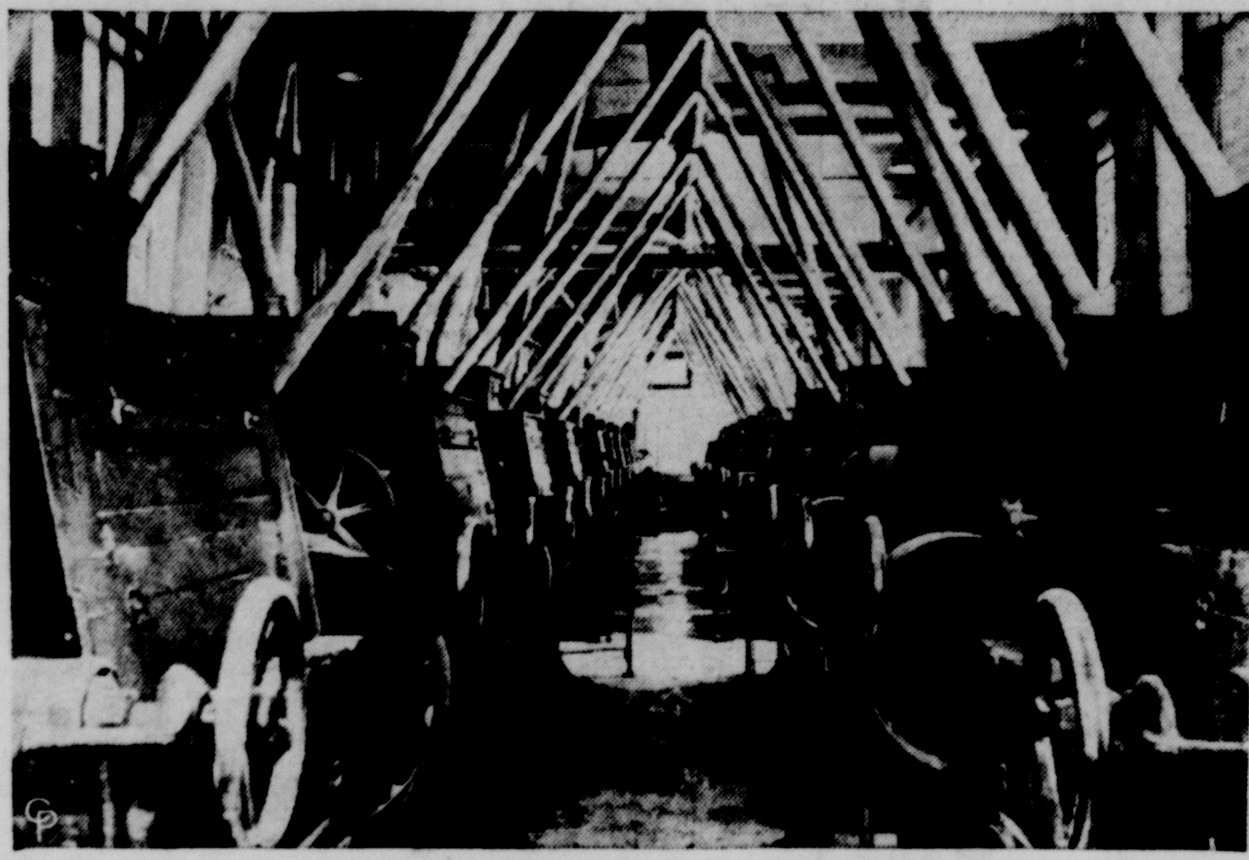

Drinkers of milk and certain brands of ice cream got a price break Monday in Circleville but consumers of butter and cheese faced price increases.

Although an OPA order, effective Sunday, permits a one-cent a quart increase in the price of milk to the consumer, local dairies had not increased the price Monday and retail dealers also were continuing to sell milk at the same price, 14 cents a quart.

The Circleville OPA office said notification of the one-cent raise in the price ceiling for milk to the consumer was received and was passed along to the dairies. However, the dairies disclosed that they hesitated to advance the price pending further notification. In this they followed the lead of Columbus dairies who cited that the

Arabs Hide Whereabouts Of Missing Grand Mufti

JERUSALEM, June 10—Arab supporters of Haj Amin el Husseini, mufti of Jerusalem and ardent Nazi collaborator, threw a veil of mystery over the whereabouts today of their leader who escaped from France under uncertain circumstances.

Close check of circumstantial reports that the mufti had arrived in Damascus to address his Arab supporters failed to produce confirmation of the mufti's presence. It was believed that the reports were deliberately circulated by the mufti's followers in an attempt to mask his whereabouts.

Some authorities suspected that the mufti still was en route and was likely to turn up at Damascus or some other middle eastern center at any moment.

Damascus was believed to be his most likely destination since Syria has been evacuated by the British and French and he presumably would have free way there to renew his bitter attacks upon the Jews in Palestine.

(In London a foreign office spokesman said that France had been asked to explain the circumstances of the "mufti's flight to the Near East in view of the fact France knew his arrival there would be most unwelcome from the British point of view.")

Reports that the mufti had made his escape in a British plane could not be confirmed and Cairo reported that a check of British airlines in the Middle East disclosed that the mufti had not been given passage on any regular line.

It was thought possible, however, he might have hired a private British plane.

YOUTH OF 18 IS KING OF SIAM

Brother Of Ruler Who Died From Pistol Wound Accepts Throne

BANGKOK, June 10—Eighteen-year-old Prince Bhumibol Aduldej ascended the throne of Siam today in succession to his brother, King Ananda Mahidol whose life was cut short at 9 a. m. yesterday by a pistol shot.

Bhumibol immediately was offered the throne vacated by his brother's death and agreed to accept the role of titular ruler of Siam.

An official communique by the government ascribed the death of Ananda to an "accident." The communique said that the king was in the habit of "playing with his pistol" during the early morning hours and was believed to have shot himself.

The official communique did not describe the king's death in detail. It said that he died at 9 a. m. yesterday and was found dead in his bedroom by an attendant.

The communique also explained that the king had been suffering from "stomach trouble" for the last week but had been able to perform his royal duties "until lately." There was no explanation as to whether there was any connection between the "stomach trouble" and the pistol shot.

The national legislature was summoned immediately into session and voted to ask Bhumibol to take the throne as provided by law. The parliament also named a three-man regency due to the new king's youth.

The regents, the presidents of both houses of the legislature, and the council of ministers headed by Premier Pridi Panomyong went to Boromphiman hall, residence of Prince Bhumibol, and officially asked him to ascend the throne.

The prince accepted the offer and forthwith was proclaimed king.

SEAMEN PLAN TO STRIKE FRIDAY

New Deadlock In Talks Dims Hopes For Averting Union Walkout

WASHINGTON, June 10—A new deadlock in negotiations today chilled hopes for preventing a nationwide CIO maritime strike at midnight Friday.

Ship operators accepted but the national maritime union rejected a government proposal for settling a dispute over working hours. The union ordered detailed preparations for the walkout.

The proposal rejected by the NMU would have given seamen one day off ashore each 14 days spent at sea. The program originally was suggested by federal mediators. The ship operators turned it into a formal offer.

The union, however, found the plan "impractical," a labor department spokesman announced early today after prolonged negotiating sessions. He added that no other proposals were made. Union-management conversations resumed today.

The NMU, headed by Joseph Curran, is carrying on the negotiations, but six other unions are prepared to strike if the NMU does not win a satisfactory settlement. The unions with 200,000 members want the work week reduced from 56 to 44 hours at sea. They originally demanded a 40-hour week ashore and at sea.

A NMU statement threatened to extend its strike call to tankers and vessels plying the Great Lakes and inland rivers.

As it ordered its 90,000 members

ABSENT VOTERS BALLOTS DUE THURSDAY NIGHT

Deadline for filing absent voters' ballots in the June 18 special referendum election to decide whether the city of Circleville will issue $550,000 in bonds to finance the purchase of the properties of the Ohio Water Service Company is 6 p. m. Thursday.

In making this announcement, Monday, officials of the Pickaway County Board of Elections disclosed that nine absent voters' ballots already had been cast.

The board emphasized that all absent and disabled voters' ballots must be returned to the Board of Elections office in the basement of the Courthouse not later than 12 noon Friday, June 14.

Government Says Growers Holding Hogs, Cattle For Price Increase

WASHINGTON, June 10—The office of economic stabilization warned today that the United States may have a meat famine in a week.

It said cattle and hog growers were withholding livestock in expectation that congress will lift price controls on meat July 1. The senate planned to begin debate late today on an OPA extension bill which includes a provision for ending meat controls on that date.

Livestock growers feel prices will soar after July 1 and thus want to delay marketing until they can sell for what the traffic will bear, said a spokesman for the office of economic stabilization.

He said packers also were holding back meat. This practice, he added, has been increasing steadily for several weeks and "if it continues, we will have a meat famine a week from now."

The hottest part of the floor fight over OPA extension was expected to center on the clause to end price ceilings on meat, poultry and dairy products by July 1. Senators trying to eliminate the provision saw removal of controls would boost retail prices 50 per cent. They say it also would encourage feeding of grain to livestock.

COST OF LIVING IS GOING UP

OPA Admits Wholesale Prices Are Now Increasing One Per Cent A Month

WASHINGTON, June 10—OPA officials estimated today that the recent one-cent-per-quart price increase for milk boosted the cost of living 1/4 of 1 per cent.

This will cost the consumer as much as all the rest of the price increases during the last month, the officials said.

But they agreed that this is just the beginning. The wage-price policy which went into effect in February set off a chain of increases at the producer and wholesale level. These increases are now being felt at the retail level in higher prices for automobiles, shoes and durable goods such as stoves and refrigerators.

It will be boosted further during the coming week by increases in soft coal, bread, butter, cheese and dairy machinery prices.

An OPA spokesman said wholesale prices are rising one per cent a month, with no signs of slowing up. Retail prices are going up "not less than 1/2 of 1 per cent" a month, he said, and the pace may quicken.

"When retail prices begin to advance one per cent a month, or one

WOMAN BLOCKS ROBBER; OTHERS SNATCH JEWELS

NEW YORK, June 10 — A woman's curiosity about some jewels in a window display foiled one burglar last night and paved the way for two other thugs to reap the benefits of his work.

The unidentified woman approached the window as the burglar began to help himself to the jewels through a hole he had made in the glass. The woman reported the burglary to the police and the thug was captured before he could flee.

While police were questioning him, two negroes came along, noticed the hole in the window, helped themselves to the jewels and fled.

DUBUQUE, Ia., June 10—Firemen feared today that a search of charred debris in the fire-swept Canfield hotel would yield more bodies in a tragedy which already had taken 15 lives.

Red Cross officials, who earlier reported 25 persons unaccounted for, revised their estimate downward. Mrs. James Donahue, executive secretary of the Dubuque Red Cross chapter, believed there were "only seven or eight" not yet accounted for.

Police and fire department officials believed that some of these might have been permanent residents of the hotel who were away during the weekend.

Mrs. Donahue said she had no list of the missing, but that Red Cross estimates were based in the number of guests believed registered at the hotel.

Register Watersoaked However, a check of the hotel register, which was watersoaked and scorched, disclosed the names of 21 persons not accounted for. The register actually listed 24 such names, but it was believed that three of them would be found to belong to three bodies still unidentified.

How many persons were registered because of the condition of the register. Estimates ran from 123 to 193.

A search of the blackened rubble within the 55-year-old main section of the hotel was delayed while crews worked to erect supports to prevent further collapse. The second and third floors of the four-story building had caved in, and the weakened walls were bulging.

Starts In Closet

The fire broke out at 11:30 p. m., CST, Saturday, and spread swiftly through the 200-room hotel. The flames, starting in a closet near the red cocktail lounge on the ground floor, shot upward to the floors above.

Panic-stricken guests trapped by the smoke and flames leaned out the windows and screamed as firemen set up ladders and rigged nets. Fire Capt. Harold Cos-

Panic-Stricken Guests Are Trapped By Fast-Spreading Flames In Iowa Hotel

Experiences In Fire Told By Eyewitnesses

BY WILLIAM CANFIELD, JR.
As Told To The United Press

DUBUQUE, Ia., June 10—The fire started in a little closet in the back of the red (cocktail) lounge on the first floor.

Employees used the closet for a dressing room. An employee ran up to me and told me there was a fire in the closet and I rushed for an extinguisher but when I returned the cocktail lounge was roaring with flames and full of smoke.

I ran to the clerk at the desk in the lobby and told him to call the fire department and notify the guests the place was on fire.

Then I ran to my parents' apartment on the second floor. I knocked but there was no answer. I tried to get the door open but it wouldn't open.

I started for help. By this time the hall was filled with smoke and people were screaming and fighting to get out.

I ran to my own apartment on the second floor. I grabbed a towel, wet it, and put it over my face. I stood in the window yelling to firemen to rescue my parents and other guests.

The firemen put a ladder up to the window and helped me down. My little dog was in my apartment. I found it in the park this morning but I don't know how it got there.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Witnesses said they saw some one drop the dog to safety from Canfield's apartment, indicating that a fireman or policeman found the dog and saved its life.)

DUBUQUE, Ia., June 10—Guests were leaning out of windows screaming "take us out, take us out," as I arrived at the Canfield hotel this morning, a few minutes after fire began sweeping through the hotel.

Guests jumped into nets held by firemen and policemen. One man slid down an improvised rope made of bedsheets. When he reached the end of the rope, about first floor level, he let go and fell onto a paved archedway, injuring him severely.

The red glow of the flames lighted the skies of downtown Dubuque and were visible for miles. The flames spread so rapidly that within 20 minutes the entire interior of the building seemed to be a mass of flames.

Some guests climbed down ladders with the aid of the firemen. Patrolman Byrne O'Brien was the first person to reach the building and begin rescue work—he got there even before the fire department did.

He found a blind man on the roof and led him down the fire escape. When they reached the grove said 30 persons were rescued when they leaped into nets, and 27 were carried down ladders. Of those who leaped, however, two were killed when they missed the nets.

Some of those who perished were burned to death and others suffocated in the smoke-filled rooms and corridors. Many escaped by ripping and knotting bedsheets into makeshift ladders.

About 40 survivors were injured, many suffering broken bones jumping from windows.

The flames destroyed the four-story section of the hotel built in 1891. Damage to a six-story annex built in 1925 was confined mainly to the first floor, although upper story rooms were burned.

Firemen admitted there was a possibility that some of the missing had escaped and had failed to report to authorities, but they feared the worst.

The flames were discovered by a hotel employee when he opened the door to a small closet back of the cocktail lounge, which had been closed for the evening and emptied of guests a short while before.

culity or to mechanical failures. We will find out when we have a critique later."

The participating planes flew at different altitudes from a few thousand feet to nearly 30,000 and at distances from the target ship array in Bikini lagoon ranging up to 40 miles.

The planes included: the bomb-carrying Superfort; Army and Navy photographic planes; Superforts which dropped half a dozen parachute blast gauges where the atomic burst will be in the air drop set for July 1; air-sea rescue planes; eight drone aircraft and mother planes; and radiological reconnaissance craft.

The entire operation was controlled by this task force command ship.

In the darkened combat intelligence center, Commander Alex Wilding, of Los Angeles, kept the whole air plan coordinated. He received reports from planes as they took off and arrived in assigned positions. Shadowy figures behind weirdly lighted plexiglass radar plotting board charted the movements of planes.

Radio kept up a constant chatter from and to the planes, all of which had special call names.

The zero hour was scheduled to be at 9 a. m. but the actual "bombs away" was an hour and fifteen seconds earlier. Kepner said the timing was "excellent."

The bomb plane made two runs, dropping its load on the second. Each time it kept the flagship and other planes informed of its progress.

"But since 1943, the curve has started downward," Allaman said, "and now the boys' cases are only 18 per cent above the 1940 figure and the girls' cases only 17 per cent higher."

The alarming part of the picture, according to Allaman, is the number of juvenile cases reported because of parental difficulties or "dependency and neglect cases."

"The number of juvenile delinquencies reported in this category reached their peak in 1944 when the number of such cases increased 47 per cent over 1940," Allaman said.

BUTTER PRICE JUMPS 11C HERE

OPA authorization excluded federal market areas. Columbus, with Circleville in the same district, is a federal market area. Effective date for the one-cent milk price increase, the dairy operators pointed out, has not been announced by the OPA.

The price of Valdeira brandy was slashed from $4.97 to $3.50 a fifth at the state liquor store, effective Monday, and Marimba rum, formerly sold at $4.31 a fifth, was cut to $2.50. The state liquor director said at Columbus that the slash in prices was aimed to spur sales.

The price of butter—in case any could be found—was advanced 11 cents a pound Monday in Circleville. The new average price was 67 cents as compared with the old price of 56 cents. The advance in the ceiling figure was authorized by the OPA and a notification to that effect was received by the OPA office in Circleville.

The new ceiling price for cheese, as set by the OPA, is seven cents a pound higher. The OPA also announced that the ceiling price of fresh peaches has been increased 4/10 of a cent a pound, and citrus fruits have been given increases up to 26 cents a box at shipping points.

MOTHER OF SIX FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE HERE

Mrs. Helen Juanita Morgan, mother of six minor children, filed suit for divorce in Pickaway County Common Pleas court, Monday, accusing Kenneth G. Morgan of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. The couple operates a grocery at Five Points.

Declaring they were married April 25, 1925, at Greenup, Ky., Mrs. Morgan claims that on June 6, 1946 her husband became "enraged," threatened to eject her from their home, and that after telling her to sue him for divorce he threw her clothing from a closet into a heap on the floor. She also alleges he has been unkind to the children, that he drinks intoxicants to excess, that on several occasions he struck her, and that he falsely accused her of associating with other men and with paying too much attention to customers in their grocery store.

In addition to a divorce, Mrs. Morgan asks for alimony and the custody of the children, Roy, 5, Paul L., 8, Robert E., 15, Richard L., 17, Mildred, 19, and Kenneth B., 20.

Judge Emmitt L. Crist granted a temporary injunction restraining Morgan from disposing of his property and from interfering with Mrs. Morgan or the children during the pendency of the suit.

Deaths and Funerals

DAYTON B. THOMPSON

Body of Pfc. Dayton B. Thompson, 20, who died from burns suffered in a fire at Camp Polk, La., is scheduled to arrive at Columbus at 6:20 p. m. Monday and will be removed by the Defenbaugh funeral home to the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert C. Thompson, on the east fork of Pike Run, Route 3, Laurelville.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Mt. Carmel church, near Laurelville, with the Rev. Mr. Price officiating. Burial will be in Green Summit cemetery, Adelphi. Military rites will be conducted by the Laurelville post of the American Legion. The pallbearers, all ex-service men, will be Charles Bullock, Charles Thurston, Willis Hart, Robert Thompson, Owen Riddle, and Francis Blackhammer.

Pfc. Thompson was born July 27, 1925, the son of Hubert C. Thompson and Vivian Wiggins Thompson. He served with the Army in Italy and when at home on a 90-day furlough he married Miss Rossella Stump on January 12, 1946.

He is survived by his widow, his parents, a brother, Loring, and seven sisters, Geraldine, Eunice, Louise, Velma, Winifred, Joyce and Linda Lee, all at home.

CLAYTON D. HESS

Clayton Dewey Hess, 84, identified with the canning industry for many years in Circleville and later at Avon, N. Y., died May 31 in his home at Avon, according to word received Monday in Circleville. He was for 25 years superintendent of a cannery at Avon and he retired from active business life in 1935. His wife, Mrs. Etta Ashworth Hess, a native of Kingston, died in 1933.

Mr. Hess was a charter member of the Knights of Pythias, Circleville, a charter member of the Avon Rotary club, and for 20 years he was a member of the board of trustees of the Avon Methodist church.

Survivors are a daughter, Miss Blanche M. Hess, Avon; a son, Malcolm C. Hess, Detroit, Mich.; a brother, Elmer E. Hess, Lyons Falls, N. Y.; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services for Mr. Hess were conducted at Avon with burial in a cemetery there.

ITALY FORMALLY CHANGES TYPE OF GOVERNMENT

ROME, June 10—Italy formally became a republic and sent King Humbert II into Portuguese exile today despite the protests of die-hard monarchists.

At 6 p. m. 11 a. m. (EST) sovereign power was handed from the House of Savoy to the republic. The ceremony was held in the "Hall of the Wolf" in the Monte Citorio palace, where the chamber of deputies has met since 1871. Humbert did not attend the proclamation ceremony. He was to receive Premier Alcide de Gasperi afterward to hear the news officially, then will depart by air alone immediately for Portugal.

A Lisbon dispatch reported that Queen Maria Jose and the four royal children arrived there Sunday aboard the Italian cruiser Duca Degli Abruzzi. They went to a hotel to await the king's arrival.

stock, and thus tighten the already short bread supply.

Senators Blast OPA

On the other hand, Sens. Edward V. Robertson, R., Wyo., and Olin D. Johnston, D., S. C., supported the move to lift meat ceilings. Robertson said he did not believe meat prices would rise above those currently paid on black markets. Johnston asserted OPA bungled the meat problem by forcing little packers out of business.

Price control advocates said the amended senate banking committee bill was a "tragic" effort to hold the line on living costs. Democratic Whip Lister Hill, Ala., declared the measure might make OPA "impotent to halt ruinous prices and inflation." Republican opposite, Kenneth S. Wherry, Neb., replied that "it doesn't go far enough" in rubbing out the price agency.

Would Junk Subsidies

Sens. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R., Ia., and Homer Capehart, R., Ind., will ask the senate to junk most food subsidies. The committee bill would reduce such payments to $1,100,000,000 and extend subsidies to only May 1, 1947. Capehart and Hickenlooper favored outright elimination of most payments, with perhaps a few left to be tapered off quickly.

Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles and OPA chief Paul Porter were expected to resign if congress passes any bill similar to the present senate measure.

They were backed by Sen. Claude Pepper, D., Fla., who asserted that "we might as well abolish OPA if we pass this bill—another 1929 is right around the corner and behind it is another 1932."

Widespread Fight

The issue will be fought over in the country at large as well as on the senate floor. The Republican forums announced that during the next six weeks they will discuss the subject and that members will be asked to ballot on various phases of price control. Some labor unions, too, have entered the fray, asserting that lifting of price controls will make mandatory another round of wage boosts to compensate for increased living costs.

A minority of the banking committee—Chairman Robert F. Wagner, D., N. Y., Sheridan Downey, D., Cal., Glen H. Taylor, D., Idaho, and Hugh B. Mitchell, D., Wash.—indicated they planned a fight to:

1. Eliminate the provision for lifting meat, poultry and dairy product ceilings.
2. Re-establish "effective" controls over clothing by restoring OPA's minimum-average-price plan which limits manufacturers' prices to those prevailing in the corresponding quarter of 1943.
3. Strike out what they term "special interest legislation" for automobile, farm implement and appliance dealers which they contend will cost automobile purchasers an additional $85 on low-priced cars.

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE

An automobile driven west on Main street by Melvin Morrison, 17, Route 4, Circleville, was in collision at 8:30 p. m. Saturday with a car operated east by John Gearhart, 24, farmer, Route 2, New Holland. Police said the accident, in which nobody was injured, occurred when Morrison was negotiating a left turn into an alley between Pickaway and Court streets. Both cars were damaged.

Industry has played a magnificent part in building our great country. "No fair-minded person will deny labor the right to organize for the purpose which unions were originally conceived," he declared, "but to now no act of industry has threatened the liberty of the American people as have the recent acts of labor leaders. Labor unions are big business. Is it not time we extend the anti-trust laws to include them?"

Holt said the remedy "lies in establishing rules of conduct for both labor and industry and making each responsible for its infractions, restoring to those now deprived of them, the equal rights guaranteed under the constitution." He added that those not now regulated and controlled should be made responsible to the law.

Veteran administrator Gen. Omar N. Bradley called for establishment of a civilian advisory center in every American community to aid in the reabsorption of 12,500,000 discharged veterans of World War II into peacetime life.

to report for strike duty at 12:01 a. m. Saturday, the union denied that political factors were involved.

Notwithstanding the slanderous statements made in the press that the contemplated strike of the maritime workers is a political strike, it should be clear that our demands are purely economic," the NMT said.

Capt. Harry Martin, president of the Masters Mates and Pilots union (AFL), charged that "the Communists, through the waterfront council and the Communist-dominated CIO maritime unions, are endeavoring to spread their tentacles over the entire maritime transportation industry and take it over."

Martin had pledged his union to respect the CIO unions' "economic picket lines" if the strike occurs. His union and the seafarers' international union were the only AFL affiliates to do so. Joseph Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's association (AFL), has called the threatened walkout a "political strike."

AFL unions which staged a protest work stoppage Thursday prepared to resume negotiations with shipowners on both coasts.

ASHVILLE MAN GETS DEGREE WITH PRESIDENT

Ralph Lane, Former Pickaway County Teacher, Is Now Doctor Of Philosophy

Ralph Lane, Ashville, a former Pickaway county teacher, Monday was the holder of a doctor of philosophy degree which he received May 29 from George Washington university immediately preceding the awarding of an honorary degree of doctor of laws to President Truman during impressive ceremonies in Constitution Hall, Washington, D. C. Miss Mary Margaret Truman, the president's daughter, was among those who received a B. A. degree.

Lane received his A. B. degree in 1929 from Capitol university, Columbus, and he was awarded an M. A. degree from Ohio State university in 1932. He also studied at Stanford university, Calif., while serving in the Army. He was in the nation's armed service three years and spent two years overseas.

Following graduation from Capitol university Lane taught for one year in the Salt Creek township schools. Subsequently he was a teacher at Portsmouth and at Buffalo, N. Y., and Washington, D. C. He plans to resume teaching at Washington where he now lives.

The training center is a part of Brooke Army Medical Center which is the largest and most complete military medical installation of its kind in the world.

Lloyd "Buddie" Davis, son of Mrs. Anna Leach, 803 Clinton street, has been discharged from the Navy. He served 29 months, 25 of which he spent in the South Pacific area.

Marshall W. Winner, 21, motor machinist mate first class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Winner, Circleville route 4, recently completed 27 months of sea duty on the destroyer escort, Trumpeter, in the Atlantic and Pacific, and he received his honorable discharge at the Jacksonville, Fla. Naval Personnel Separation Center, June 7. Winner was sent overseas on the Trumpeter in October, 1943, and was assigned to anti-submarine patrol in the South Atlantic. Two months before the war's end the ship served on patrols off Pearl Harbor. Winner was returned to the United States in January and was detached from his ship at Green Cove Springs, Fla., early this month. A veteran of 38 months of naval duty, Winner wears five ribbons, the American theater, European-African, Asiatic-Pacific, Victory, and the Good Conduct.

A graduate of the Circleville High school, he was employed as a truck mechanic at the Army Ordnance Base, Columbus, for eight months prior to his entry into the Navy in March, 1943. The veteran plans to enter a college this fall under the educational program of the GI Bill of Rights. Winner and his wife, the former Julia Jane Work, Circleville, will make their home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Work, 150 Watt street.

SURPLUS AUTO AND TYPEWRITER SUPPLIES GONE

Veterans will continue to have exclusive right to buy surplus passenger automobiles and typewriters but no more applications are being certified effective May 31. The War Assets Administration has announced. Passenger cars and typewriters have always been in heavy demand and very low supply and it is believed that the actual and foreseeable stocks cannot fill more than a small portion of the demand.

Until May 3, when an amendment of the Surplus Property Act improved the buying position of the veteran, higher priority holders absorbed virtually all of these items WAA reported.

The amendment to the Surplus Property Act authorized the Administration to set aside for sale exclusively to veterans, for their personal or business use, quantities and types of surplus property which he deemed appropriate.

Preliminary regional reports indicate that the applications have been so numerous that it would be pointless to certify any more, especially in view of the fact that there is no likelihood of any sizeable surplus declarations of usable cars in the future. To a lesser extent the same thing is true of typewriters.

IDEAL WEATHER VISITS COUNTY

Farmers Take Advantage Of Sunny Skies To Catch Up With Work

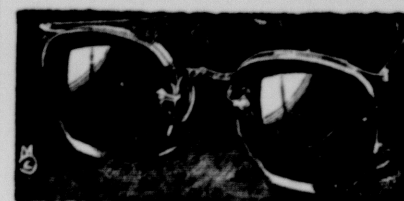

Ideal weather Sunday sent thousands of residents of the Circleville area into the outdoors for recreation and relaxation but many farmers remained on the job trying to catch up with their work.

Farming operations had been delayed by recent heavy rains and a lot of farmers took advantage of the sunny Sabbath skies to proceed with their overdue corn planting. Some fields had remained unbroken by the plow even though the normal corn-planting time had passed.

In many fields, Sunday night, tractor headlights gleamed, and motors chug-chugged. Arrival of cooler weather Monday morning may be followed Monday night by scattered showers, the weatherman said, with higher temperatures probable Tuesday.

SPARTANISM

READING of the federal government's plan for military service and discipline, a modern citizen may find himself musing on the ancient Spartan system which prevailed in Greece nearly 2,500 years ago. The Senate plan makes able-bodied men from 18 to 45 eligible and liable for service, merely exempting from the draft scientists and certain other minor groups. At the same time it allows for liberal boosts in the pay of enlisted men.

We are not really going back to the Spartan system, but it is possible now, perhaps as never before, to imagine American citizens regularly undergoing military training after the manner of procedure in countries that we have been inclined to call militarist—as well as in Switzerland which has long had military training but which keeps her peace with all other nations.

Obviously, that is something which Americans do not like to think about. But just as obvious, perhaps, is the fact that our former free, placid and sometimes idle American youths may find, at least for some years, a sterner, and more militant life than they have expected.

GRAIN

THERE are signs of easement ahead now in the great flour shortage, which struck this country so unexpectedly in the early Spring and has imposed real hardship in some communities. In two or three weeks, says the Millers National Federation, the stringency will be definitely on the wane, as the winter wheat crop pours in from the southwest and is found to be as much as 25 per cent above expectations. Last week was expected to be the worst.

Millions of Americans, no doubt, have had a wholesome scare from the unexpected situation which developed in a land where the grain bins are normally full to overflowing. And millions likewise have acquired new sympathy for foreign nations that have felt, and in large areas may still continue to feel, the pangs of serious privation. This has been, in Wendell Willkie's eloquent phrase, another demonstration that we are literally "one world," which to an ever increasing degree stands or falls together.

RIVAL OF COMMUNISM

IF Western Europe becomes communized, would that mean Russian control? It may be doubted. Underneath the economic structure national feelings remain. German Communists and French Communists by no means think alike as to what should be done with Germany, and Italian Communists would not be pleased to see Trieste go to the Yugoslavs, even if these are led by the Russian sympathizer, Tito.

Nationalism is not a force to be counted out in Europe. Not yet, anyhow.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 10—The European elections have projected a new political course for the western half of the continent. The surprise in France was the growth of the popular Republican movement, which is best described as Christian democracy (parliamentarianism, freedom for all parties, individual liberty), and thus represents the same trend as the unexpected size of the vote for the monarchy in Italy and the successes of the Catholic centrists and Christian Democrats in Holland a few weeks earlier. In each instance, a similar new political force came rising up out of the electorate to challenge the grasp of the Communists for controls. Earlier the Socialists had been the most important challengers of Communism.

Now the Communists are trying to arouse anti-Catholic sentiment by calling this new challenge a religious movement, and attributing it largely to the Catholic church, but it is not religious in nature. The issues it raises are not religious in character and of no religious significance except in common resistance to stateism as a religion, which has been atheistic in character. There are no available forces of Christian democracy in France, Italy and much of western Europe, outside the Catholic church, to which the bulk of the Christian population adheres. But this bulk includes many Socialists and indeed is unified politically only in its resistance to Communism.

The only change in truth then is the growth of the power of Christian democracy in this bulk. The Socialists had heretofore demonstrated the greatest political power against the Communists, but they comprised their position by collaboration in France and elsewhere.

In this accurate consideration of the matter, it would then be a serious mistake for us to fall for the Communist propaganda and misinterpret the precise nature of results which are going our way at long last, and give them a religious nature as the Communists and their propagandists wish us, thus furnishing water on their wheel against our own interests. The Communists are simply centering their attack upon the Catholics, in order to have their own resistance joined by other religious denominations such as Protestants and Jews not only in Europe but throughout the world.

Behind the simultaneous report of the United Nations committee investigation on Spain lie the same discernible strings. The report peculiarly held that Spain's Franco was not a menace to world peace now but would be when the U. N. assembly meets in September (for reasons not stated), and he should be kicked out then. Now there are few believers in Christian principles in Spain who also are not Catholics, but Gibraltar is more important to the world than Spain in the matter of peace. As Gibraltar will still be there presumably in September, the report drawn by the chairmanship of a British possession, Australia, created much perplexity. Indeed, inspired stories immediately came to the press from responsible American diplomats that the committee had exceeded its authority in recommending action because it was appointed to find the facts about how much of a threat to world peace Franco really was.

"The Authority on Authorities"

VARY YOUR FINESSES
Whether to finesse the 10 or Q on the first round of an A-Q-10 combination depends on a number of factors. If there are so many cards out that the declarer is not thinking of dropping one of the missing two honors on the second round, he has only one sound chance to shut out both of them. That is by finding both at the left of his double tenace and finessing the 10 the first time.

South spilled the beans. He finessed the heart Q, which won; but that best hand back South with the club K, he led a second heart. When West came in with the J, he forced the A, which established the K as the setting trick. Merely finessing the 10 the first time would have made the contract secure.

There are only a few situations in which the Q should be finessed first from a double major tenace. One is when you are in a suit contract and have only two cards of the suit, so that you can ruff the third round. Another is when you require only two of the honor-card tricks and are convinced, from the bidding or previous play, that the first player has the K but maybe not the J. Still another is when you have nine or 10 cards of the suit and don't want to take a double chance of losing the first trick, expecting to fell the K on the second round.

Tomorrow's Problem
J 2
A 7 5 4
J 7 3
A K Q 9
K 10 6
K 8 6 5

North's 4-No Trump bid was natural, not a Blackwood, just a gentle slam hint, and South required plenty of nerve to go all the rest of the way to small slam. South needed only two commodities to make it, however—a good chunk of luck and simple sound play. He had the first, but lacked the second.

West led the diamond 4. East won with the A and returned the 10 to the K. That made eight tricks sure in spades, diamonds and clubs, so that four in hearts would complete the slam. Then South having pre-empted with 4-Hearts, West took the spade K and Q and returned the club 5 to the Q. What should East then return, and why?

Diagrams showing card layouts for the bridge game, including North's hand (10 8 5 2, J 2, A 7 5 4, J 7 3, A K Q 9, K 10 6, K 8 6 5) and South's hand (A 10 3, 9 3 2, A 9 7 6, 10 9 7, K J 5, J 7 6 4, J 8 2).

Hospital Care Only For Severe Burns

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
ACCIDENTS ought not to happen, but since they do, we should all have some advance knowledge of how to handle them.
Now, some accident cases can very properly be given first-aid treatment at home during the time it takes the doctor to arrive, but not those involving severe burns. A deep and widespread burn endangers life and challenges the best that medical science can offer.

Moments Precious
Every moment is precious, so, if ever you are faced with such a situation, don't waste time trying to relieve the patient at home. Rush him to the hospital, because only a hospital is equipped to give prompt treatment adequate to the emergency.
Severe burns are dangerous from many standpoints. In the first place, they cause a condition known as shock or collapse with lowered blood pressure and, often, unconsciousness. Secondly, there is a loss of protein because of the large amount of the fluid part of the blood which accumulates on the burned surface.
This means that the blood is being robbed of its fluid and of proteins essential to the nourishment of body tissues, at a dangerously rapid rate.
Losses Made Good
If life is to be saved, both losses must be made good without delay. The best way of doing this, according to Dr. Somers H. Sturgis of the U. S. Army Medical Corps, is by an injection of blood plasma or the fluid part of the blood. Of course, whenever a burn is severe, the patient should be put into a hospital as soon as it is possible. If not, call the doctor immediately. He will be able to improve methods whereby emergency treatment can be given at home.

CHAPTER NINETEEN
"I SAW YOU in the diner," Corbett said to Nina.
"Larry paid for my lunch."
"Big hearted, too."
"I waited for you. He passed by, saw me sitting alone."
"If I'd thought—"
"Oh, don't apologize." Her lips thinned. "I saw you, too. With your pal."
He bristled. "That's no pal of mine."
"Seeing's believing." She took what remained of her butt from the ash tray and puffed.
"Where've you been all this time?"
"Shooting pool with the gang."
She liked his reply and picked up his bantering tone as though he had tossed her a cue. "Slag! I thought the Army shot craps!"
"Oh, not on trains. Dear, dear, no. It's too unrefined. . . If I'd thought, if I'd dreamed you needed lunch money."
She murmured: "I managed." "Girls like you get along."
The triangle came back to her forehead. He was irked with himself, more than she was with him. "Cut it out, crapes, cut it out," he admonished himself. "Stop picking sores." "Sorry," he said after a small pause. "I got detained. Had some business to do."
"With your pal?"
He reddened. "I'll wash your mouth out with soap. Can I help it if that guy has the seat next to mine?"
"In the coach?"
He nodded. He sensed disappointment, wrong side of the tracks. "Lucky to get even that." "Is it terrible there? Awfully crowded?"
"Come and see. You're the type who goes slumming."
Her eyebrows hitched up. "Say, soldier, only my friends can talk that way to me."
"Do you have them?" He bit his lip. The sarcasm wasn't called for. Yet his skin was so thin it couldn't pass by the least bit of needling.
"You'd be surprised at my friends." There was a hint of coquetry. It relieved the tension.
"Mr. Stengel?"
"Mr. Stengel. Mr. Smith. Mr. Jones. Mr. Brown. The cream of the crop."
"My, my, now you get around." He leaned back on the sofa, resting his head on the towel antimacassar. He planted his legs on the stool.
"Make yourself comfortable," she said with the least hint of asperity. "Nothing's too good for the Air Force."
"You said it. baby. You said it." She put out her cigarette, blew the last wisps of smoke from her mouth. "A fine situation. Boy meets girl. Boy starts picking and squabbling."
"That's YOUR disposition."
"Mine? Why, sir, how dare you?"

Stars Say—
BY GENEVIEVE KEMBLE
For Monday, June 10
Monday's astrological forecast is for the final moves in major plans now approaching the time for "signing on the dotted line." Splendid foundations and clever methods for assuring future solidarity and sustained growth of sound values are now to be brought to the point of agreements, contracts, after astute conference in which there is prospect of "higher-ups" being ready and willing for generous endorsement and capital for production.
If It Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in the crisis of events in which greatly accelerated action and astute judgment may bring affairs to the final issue. This means the making of contracts, agreements, and a discussion of ways and means in measures recently pending.
It is a most propitious time for signing, sealing and delivering, although some changes may be advisable, even to a change of environs or some travel. But all should bring pleasure and exceptional profit.

GOP Making All-Out Bid For Elusive Labor Vote | Railway and Coal Strikes May Hurt Administration

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The Republicans are making an all-out bid for the labor vote, both in the forthcoming congressional elections and for higher stakes two years from now when the presidential campaign gets underway.

Both the railway and the coal strikes have furnished the GOP with ammunition in Congress.

Republicans lined up almost solidly behind the Case anti-strike bill, but their bucking of President Truman's proposed "draft the strikers" legislation is a matter of record.

In that case they joined hands with such stalwart New Dealers as Senator Claude Pepper (D) of Florida.

Labor experts are quick to point out that the labor vote is never solid, but varies with various sections, states and individuals.

They emphasize the obvious fact that the Democratic party, which had a top-heavy majority under the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, has fallen more or less out of favor with the rank and file of labor.

Philip Murray's CIO and Sidney Hillman's PAC are violent in their opposition to anti-strike legislation. Nevertheless, they form the nucleus of the administration's labor support.

John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers are watching and waiting. If an election were held tomorrow, it is believed that they would support a liberal Republican heavily.

Right now organized labor is a spectator at a political circus. Both the Republican elephant and the Democratic donkey are vying in performing tricks to win labor's favor—and votes.

OBSERVERS IN WASHINGTON

definitely expect Economic Stabilizer Bowles to recommend restoring of food rationing in the United States this summer.

Bowles reportedly feels that this must be done because of the world food situation, now worse than during the war.

There appears to be a difference of opinion, however, as to whether bread should be rationed if such a program is put into effect.

Chester Davis, chairman of the famine emergency committee, believes that it should not. There have been reports that Bowles contemplated rationing controls on the staff of life.

Agreement was general, though, that meat would be one of the chief items to be returned to the ration list if one is drawn up again. Other items probably will be fats and oils.

THE PUBLIC was slightly startled recently when charges of "hoologanism" were lodged against a minor official of the United States embassy in Moscow.

After a dashing celebration of Red Army Day last February the official reportedly attempted to cement United States-Russian relations too strenuously with an actress from the Russian state theater.

Her complaint brought his arrest on charges of hoologanism, which is a real charge in the Russian penal code, carrying a maximum jail penalty of five years.

The word was coined in England because of the antics of an Irish family named Hoologan which enlivened London with its boisterous goings-on.

At the turn of the century, the term "hoologanism" became well known in the United States through the comic strips. One of the most popular funnies of the time featured the doings of a tramp character named Happy Hoologan.

Hoologanism became the symbol of irresponsible, but not necessarily malicious, wrongdoing. Russia picked up the word to handle the assorted offenses committed after World War I by millions of homeless and disoriented orphans who roamed the country disturbing the peace.

The Irish had a word for it, and the word got around.

Robert Maxwell, radio's successful producer of children's programs, is childless. Mrs. Lilliebell Lombardo, wife of Guy Lombardo and president of the Long Island Humane Society, was so severely bitten on her face and hands by her pet great dane that the wounds required 50 stitches. Mrs. Lombardo, bitten when she knelt to kiss the canine, declared it was not the dog's fault. He doesn't like to be kissed. Paul Lavalle, conductor of the "Highways in Melody" orchestra, has been invited to organize nation-wide orchestras for the Boy Scouts. A few months ago Cass Deley started playing golf just for exercise and recreation. She has become so adept that she has entered the women's club championship tournament at Hollywood's Lakeside Golf Club. The next government blast at radio is expected to concern phony patent medicine advertising. Joan Davis turned down an offer to replace the Duffy's Tavern program. After a recent Fred Allen show Jack Benny proceeded to count his wages. Checking the four one dollar bills Jack came across a small pocket comb whereupon he strode over to Allen and thanked him for the subtle gift.

Here Before Columbus
MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va.—Evidence has been found, but not proved, that intrepid Norsemen penetrated the upper Ohio Valley "as long before the time of Columbus as we today are living after that time."

In the past 100 years, only two "Rune Stones" have been found in West Virginia, but they indicate that at least Moundsville and Braxton county, W. Va., had white people 400 years before Columbus ever thought of a "New World."

The carnation is reported to have come originally from Persia, although it has been cultivated for more than 2,000 years.

Mayor Urges Circleville Citizens To Keep Wartime Savings

GORDON WARNS RESIDENTS TO AVOID LOSSES

City Asked To Join In U. S. Campaign To Avoid New Inflation

Mayor Ben H. Gordon issued an official proclamation, Monday, urging the safeguarding of wartime savings. The action was taken, the mayor said, at the request of Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

Mayor Gordon said his proclamation was issued in connection with a nation-wide campaign to protect the public from loss of their savings through frauds and gyp schemes and to thus avoid a repetition of the tragic losses that many people suffered due to imprudent use of their savings following World War I.

As of Jan. 1, 1946, Mayor Gordon pointed out, the total liquid assets of the people of the United States was estimated by the U. S. Treasury Department to be $181,000,000,000, and that figure represents money held by more than 85,000,000 Americans and is largely in the form of War Bonds, savings deposits, checking accounts and cash. With this vast reservoir of savings representing as it does a tremendous potential purchasing power, if properly conserved and wisely spent, the possibility of unwise expenditures, investments and losses to fraudulent enterprises is apparent. The mayor added that competent authorities have estimated that there are more than 750 basic swindling schemes extant now seeking to defraud the people of their accumulated savings.

Following a state conference it was decided to appeal to the mayors of all Ohio cities to take the lead in initiating the campaign in their respective communities. The state committee laid special emphasis on the following:

- 1—Guard your wartime savings.
- 2—Investigate before you invest.
- 3—Check values before you buy.
- 4—Buy more Savings Bonds and keep those you now have.
- 5—Do not buy anything now that you do not need.

"A campaign to safeguard wartime savings is a movement in which all of our citizens should be vitally concerned", Mayor Gordon asserted. "I urge all citizens to give heed to the timely warnings sounded by national and state committees engaged in this campaign.

The proclamation: WHEREAS, it is estimated that the American people now have an accumulated savings of approximately 181 billions of dollars which is available for the purchase of commodities and for the purpose of investments, which funds, if properly safeguarded, will mean much to the future security of our people and the economic welfare of our nation; and

WHEREAS, there is a definite danger that a considerable portion of this money may be dissipated by investment in unproductive and illegitimate channels which will divert people of their savings and their purchasing power; and

WHEREAS, a nation-wide movement has been instituted to impress the people of this country with the necessity for safeguarding their savings as a protection to them for the economic welfare of the nation and as a means of combating inflation, in which national organizations representing business, agriculture, education, labor, industry, finance, veterans, press and radio, and others have taken an active part; and

WHEREAS, representatives of such groups in the State of Ohio as well as the agencies of the State and local government are vitally concerned with this problem and are desirous of lending their aid in this program in every way possible.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Ben H. Gordon, Mayor of the City of Circleville, do hereby call upon all citizens of the City of Circleville, to give their aid and cooperation to the furtherance of the nationwide movement to safeguard the savings of the American people and I further urge that civic, patriotic, labor, employer, agricultural, educational, newspaper, radio and all other groups cooperate and assist to the end that wise spending of war-time savings will be achieved.

What About WATER RATES?

The Water Company offered to furnish soft-water to the City for an INCREASED RATE OF $1.35 PER QUARTER. — A 75% INCREASE! This would make a MINIMUM CHARGE OF $3.15 PER QUARTER. HOW DOES THIS COMPARE WITH OTHER CITIES OF COMPARABLE SIZE WHO OWN THEIR OWN WATER PLANTS AND HAVE SOFT WATER?

City	Minimum Quarter Charge	No. Gallons Soft Water
Ashland	$2.00	6,000
Athens	3.75	15,000
Bedford	2.25	7,500
Berea	3.00	11,250
Bryan	3.00	10,500
Defiance	2.50	8,250
Greenfield	2.25	4,250
Dover	2.50	9,750
Greenville	3.00	7,500
Logan	1.50	4,550
Wapakoneta	1.75	3,750
CIRCLEVILLE (Under Company ownership)	3.15	3,000
CIRCLEVILLE (Under City ownership)	1.80	3,000
